

SAD DEATH OF R. H. FAIRHEAD FROM THE FLU

Last week the death occurred of Mr. R. Fairhead, at the Emergency hospital in the school. His death was deeply mourned by everyone in Wainwright, among whom he had been a friend of all.

Mr. Fairhead was a returned veteran, having seen service in the early stages of the war and was gassed and sustained shell shock at the battle of Courcellette. He came to Wainwright in 1917 and was employed as an office man with A. G. Smith, superintendent of the Buffalo Park. He was the first president of the Great War Veterans association, organized in town, and was a hard worker for the bettering of conditions for returned men. He left Wainwright early this summer and was working on his farm, about thirty miles from Lloydminster until just recently when he left for here.

It was in Lloydminster, on his way to Wainwright, that he contracted influenza, and after apparently recovering he continued on his journey. The day after his arrival he took a relapse, and was taken to the hospital, where everything was done to save his life, but pneumonia developing, and coupled with a weak constitution as a result of injuries while in the army, he was unable to resist the ravages of the disease and passed away on Saturday morning, November 16th, at the age of twenty-four years.

The body was taken charge of by Mr. Small, undertaker and the funeral was taken charge of by Mr. T. Crampton, president of the Great War Veterans.

ing parlors by members of the Society of England lodge, who acted as pass-bearers, and included Past President J. Brown and J. Chipston, J. Richardson, Jack Liddle, Fred Jenkins and Sinclair members.

The firing party consisting of Co. N. F. Priestley, and Ptes. Sharp Dahlgren, Harden, Reeves, and another, under command of Sergeant Saul, at once came to attention and slowly filed off at the head of the procession.

The senior officer present was C. Rodman of Chauvin, who along with J. Logan, of Edmonton, marched on each side of the hearse to the cemetery.

The casket was appropriately developed in the Union Jack, and the hearse was preceded by the Wainwright band, playing as a funeral march "Aside With Me" a favorite

HEROINES AT HOME

During the last four years of war many medals have been won for deeds of bravery and hundreds of real heroes have been brought before the public. There are cause of liberty have done many valiant deeds and the praise that has been accorded them has been justly due.

But the war has not produced all the brave men and women that are in the world and many feats worthy of the Victoria cross have been done in Canada—and right here in Wainwright. We have in mind one resident of Wainwright whose sacrifices for the cause of humanity has been great and to whom the call of duty was responded to with whole-hearted energy. Mrs. J. H. Hart, who was so recently bereaved of her husband, has done prodigious things during the last two weeks. When the influenza epidemic immediately after the death of her husband, Mrs. Hart came forward and volunteered her services as a trained nurse. She has taken charge of the emergency hospital here and has devoted all her energies to the work. Last week Mrs. Hart was at the bedside of patients almost night and day. One week she hardly secured a single night's rest. She has shown a truly heroic spirit and we unanimously voice the sentiments of every one in the very best commendation possible to give, and heartfelt appreciation is given to her for her tireless efforts in mitigating the sufferings of the victims of the dread influenza.

In our opinion the public presentation of some concrete evidence of our appreciation of her services would be in order.

OUR SPLENDID RECORD

Saturday, November 16th saw the close of the Victory Loan campaign. The total amount will be raised that was asked for by the government, which is very gratifying, considering that difficulties met with in the canvassing, owing to the influenza epidemic throughout Canada.

—We believe that the town of Wainwright deserves the record for the whole of Canada for the amount subscribed in ratio to the population. Every business man in the town took all he could handle of the bonds, and practically nine-tenths of the total male population subscribed. With an object of $150,000 and a quota of $2000 the town raised over $4000, which in the words of the westerner "is going some." This was raised in the face of a crop failure, and a dry year in the bargain.

The people of the district can welcome the returning boys from overseas with every confidence of having done their bit at home.

CIVIC ELEPHANTS

Only a week from Monday, nomination day takes place in the fire hall. So far there has been no word of information of any one willing to stand for either council or mayoralty chair. The coming year will be one of great importance to the town and several questions will come up that will require very careful consideration.

Who will come forward to take the responsibility of guiding our coming city through the coming term?

The town deeply regrets the death of R. Fairhead, one of the boys who had died his bit overseas. The very large attendance at the funeral exemplified the esteem in which he was held by all who knew him.

A. E. Mills, official canvasser of the town of Wainwright has made a record for himself in selling bonds. Over $30,000 worth of bonds were sold by his individual efforts.

There seems to be no abatement of the flu epidemic in town and restrictions should be rigorously enforced.

The publication of a newspaper is not a productive industry. A newspaper is not eaten, worn, used for fuel, building material, or for transportation purposes. The world could run without newspapers. Just as it could run without teachers or preachers, doctors or lawyers, or a thousand and one other professions, callings or industries that are not essential to the existence of mankind, but are essential to the welfare, happiness and progress of civilized man. The newspaper is a means of publicity. Its function is the distribution of information. Just as teachers and preachers, doctors and lawyers—none of whom are producers as the world is generally understood—are universally regarded as essential to civilized life.

The publication of a newspaper is not an essential industry. Its function is the distribution of information. Just as teachers and preachers, doctors and lawyers—none of whom are producers as the world is generally understood—are universally regarded as essential to civilized life.

A newspaper is an industry. Its work can only be done by the employment of labor and the use of material on a scale proportionate to the volume and value of the information it gives and the range of the publicity its circulation affords. The investment in an up-to-date newspaper plant is large. The weekly wages bill for the mechanical staff is large and the bill for printing paper consumed is large and the many other services that must co-operate in the making of a newspaper. All this means large income, therefore there must be large income to support the newspaper. The income of a newspaper is derived from only two sources, subscriptions and advertising. In the past when the cost of newsprint paper was low the advertiser was expected to bear the chief burden of the cost of producing a paper. Circulation was wanted at any price and many papers in order to increase their circulation offered subscription rates far below the cost of white paper. In recent years the cost of newsprint has been increased from time to time. As these increases took place it became necessary for publishers to look to their subscription lists for a larger and larger share of their revenue. Bargain subscriptions became less frequent. Increases of regular rates were made from time to time. Deadheads were cut out. In various ways the effort was made to bring cost and earnings to more nearly a level than had been the case.

Teach the Children to Save

Habits are acquired early in life. Children, who are taught the value of money and the habit of saving, grow up into good business men and capable women.

The easiest way to teach children to save, is to start a Savings Account for each child ($1.00 each is sufficient). After a child has saved another dollar to make an additional dollar, he or she will have a better appreciation of just what a dollar stands for, and how much work and self-denial it represents.

tom in the past. While cost of paper was going up the wage bill was also increased, following the increase in cost of living and the scarcity of help owing to large enlistment for military service from the printing trade.

From the above it will be seen that during these times the collection of subscriptions is a very vital factor in the financing of a weekly paper. We have seen our subscribers this week and trust that our subscribers will see the necessity of financing their subscriptions up to date.

GOING SOME

A white man took his negro servant to an unoccupied house on the plantation and, finding the gas cut off, told him to wait until he went back to the house for a light. When he returned the negro was gone, and for two days no trace of him could be found. On the third day Washington returned, his clothes all torn to pieces. He was mud from head to heel.

"Why, Washington," asked his employer, "where in the world have you been since I left you at the old house there?"

"Well, yo' sader," Marse John, when yo' went away for dat light, Ah sat in de cheer, comfible like, an' Ah put ma feet up on de table, an' Ah fill ma pipe, an' took a drink out ob de bottle. An' jest dat mornin' de door open a-s-l-l-l, like de hinges was greased, an' in walk a cat—a big cat sah, all av six feet high—an' hoo eyes was big as saucers, an' dey shined like brass; an' she bop herself upon de table an' wrop hoo tail across hoo bres an' sez 'good evenin'; dey ain't nobody hear but yo' an' me'."

"An' I sez, 'cuse me ef yo' wait jes a munit dey won't be nobody hear but yo' an' me.' I went through dat window an' lit on ma feet, an' riz runnin' an' Ah kept on a runnin'."

"An' Ah run on through de timbals. Den a rabbit run out an' run down de path ahead ob me; an' Ah kick dat rabbit out ob de way an' Ah say: 'Get out ob de way for a man what kin run.' Yes, sah, dat's what I did."

"An' Ah kept on a runnin' an' way obah on de fuh cornah ob de plantation Ah stop an' lean up agin' dat big oak tree to res' an' Ah look around an' fast find thing yo' know dere was a little man about two feet high an' he tuk off his haird an' sez 'it unah his ahm an' sez: 'Dat was a fun run wha yo'all made, cuse man.'"

"An' Ah heez, 'Good Lawd, jes watch me now.' An' Marse John, he jes gettin' back—Ladies' Home Journal.

PEACE—BUT NOT PLENTY

The end of the war has come, but Canada must not relax her efforts to increase the production of food. In addition to the Allies, whose productive powers have been hampered by the war and who need imports from this continent to maintain a reserve, the people of the neutral nations must also be considered. Canada Food Board calls attention to the fact, also, that the countries of the defeated enemy nations have also to be considered as in some cases millions of helpless people are facing starvation. Counting Russia, Austria-Hungary, Turkey, Bulgaria, the neutral countries and France, Belgium, Italy and Great Britain, a grand total of 250,000,000 people are short of food.

Canada will have a hungry market for her agricultural produce and our greatest possible effort to maintain and increase production will be none too great.

NOT TO FANCE

"Going to France?" asked a travelling man at the station to a negro soldier.

"No sah, I's not going to France," replied the dusky soldier, "I'm going to Berlin, but I may stop in France for a shawt time on de way."

Experimental Farm Notes

STRAW AS A ROUGHAGE FOR LIVE STOCK

The problems of the live stock farmer are numerous, especially when confronted with a dry season and a possible feed shortage and the past season has been one of concern and worry to him, especially if located in the drought stricken areas. In previous years prairie hay constituted a large percentage of the roughage fed to live stock on the prairies. Owing to the drought, however, straw is largely taking its place this year. Therefore it is the duty of every farmer on the prairies to conserve every stack of straw, as it may be required before the dawn of another spring. The crops in certain sections of Northern Saskatchewan suffered from frost injury in July, and were immediately cut and cured for hay. Wheat, oats or barley cut and handled in hay, make excellent feed for live stock in fact, with the addition of some roots and a little grain, it is practically equivalent to the best hay in the market. At the Indian Head Experimental Farm all the straw produced on the farm is utilized as feed with the exception of wheat straw which is used largely for bedding. For at least three months during the winter the idle farm horses receive no other form of roughage but oat straw. Grain is fed in conjunction to keep the horses in good shape for heavy spring work. The breeding cattle receive one feed of straw per year together with ensilage and grain. This use of straw materially reduced the cost of feeding.

As straw is nutritious and palatable, especially when cut to shade on the green side. In fact, good oat straw or green oat straw is to be preferred to much of the hay on the market. Barley straw is low in feeding value and objectionable on account of the awns which make it unpalatable and injurious. However, when cut or mixed with oat straw it acts as a filler. Wheat straw has very little feeding value. It is coarse, unpalatable and not relished by live stock, however, in the case of a shortage of other bulky feeds, a small quantity of wheat straw may be fed with good success.

Conserve the straw by threshing in a yard adjoining the farm buildings, this system makes far cleaner farming in that it prevents the spreading of straw, weed seeds and other dirt all over the farm. Then the threshing is done in or near one building, hogs may be used as scavengers for the utilization of the grain lying around the straw stack which, otherwise, would be wasted.

EARLY PULLETS FOR WINTER EGGS

When we take into consideration that the average egg production on the Canadian farm is 75 or 80 eggs per hen and when we'll manage (double) and lay 120 to 150 eggs an individual hen may be higher than 300 eggs in the 12 months, it looks as though improvement might be made in the class of stock many keep in the first place pure bred stock is best. They should be from a good laying strain. They should be from healthy parentage and for winter egg production, pullets only and early pullets should be kept. In an experiment conducted at one of the Branch Experimental Farms where four different ages of birds were in competition for winter egg production, it was found that early pullets produced eggs at an average cost of 167 cents, late pullets 282 cents; two year old hens 501 cents; three-year old hens 887 cents per dozen. Figures seem to show that the birds that lay earliest are the best layers. The early pullet is the only bird that should be kept for winter egg production and it is the winter eggs that pay. A dozen eggs at Christmas is worth two or three dozen in May or June. Early pullets mean early eggs and early chicks in the spring which of course means early pullets in the fall. As a rule the pullets that lay earliest are the best layers so that every pullet that lays before Xmas should be marked. They are your best layers and with your best layers should always be mated to male birds of good layers. The male is more than half the flock. A male from good laying strain and especially from a good laying mother will do more to build up the laying quality of the flock than any other thing. Don't use them for breeding purposes, cockerels whose pedigree you know nothing about. Better pay a good price and get a good bird.

Most Heat from Fuel

One reason why the Kootenay Range gives the most heat from the fuel generated from the fuel, is that the grates have ample vents to make perfect combustion in the firebox, which is properly and scientifically proportioned according to the needs of the range.

German Treatment of The Prisoners--Further Amazing Disclosures

The full story of Germany's crimes has not yet been told in many cases it never will be. But from time to time there come to light new accounts of German atrocities, which should serve to remind us of the debt to the principles of humanity still outstanding against Germany.

Such an account has lately been received in a letter from a British officer, who after nearly four years of captivity in Germany, is now interned in Holland and is at last able to tell the story of his treatment by his captors. The writer of the letter was taken prisoner near Le Chateau on August 24, 1914. He was afterwards one of the 39 British officers who were imprisoned as a reprisal against the so-called "ill treatment" of German submarine commanders in England.

The letter is dated June 22, 1918. After describing in some detail the manner of his capture, the writer narrates the following story, which is given here word for word as he wrote it:

"I was then put with sixty French prisoners and marched in front of the German column, under a strong guard, into Le Chateau, so that at once, we were the first under British eyes. At 11 o'clock we were halted in the main street and made to stand on the pavement with our backs to the houses and two rows of German soldiers with their rifles touching our stomachs, guarding us. Two hours later a Hun under officer arrived a French officer with his bayonet."

The Frenchman grasped the bayonet to protect himself whereupon the NCO's shrieked: "The prisoners resist. Fire." These guards, who as I say, were practically touching us, let off four rounds apiece. About eleven Frenchmen were killed, and about ten seriously wounded.

Riddled with Bullets

"The poor French officer dropped, riddled with bullets, and after he was on the ground dead the Huns near him again and again plunged their bayonets into his corpse till he was entirely disembowelled. Next to me were the only English prisoners, a corporal of horse, of the First Life Guards, fell, luckily for him at the first shot, but only in the cheek; a corporal of the 2nd and 3rd regiments, shot in the neck. The two Hussars fell; one got all four bullets in the stomach, the other three in the arm and one in the stomach."

"Then a German sergeant named came up and said: 'Is it only the French who have mutinied, do not shoot the remaining Englishmen (me) but shoot all the French, curse them.' You see, the rifle of the front rank Hun which was actually touching my tunic had jammed and the rear rank man, a vindictive little brute, who kept shouting: 'Engländer, schweinbündel' at me, although he let his piece off four times in my face, managed to entirely miss me though by the marks on the door against which I was standing two bullets must have passed."

"I lay breathless on each side of my face and my face was blackened by powder and the explosion: 'Well, luckily I remembered enough German to thrust myself in between the remaining French and the firing party and say to the Hun sergeant: major: 'You cannot murder prisoners in cold blood. At least send for an officer first.' To my astonishment he agreed and did so. The officer on arrival said humbly, 'Enough have been killed. Take the wine to the church.'"

"The letter proceeds to describe the various stages of the journey into captivity, which began with a three day march to Magus."

"There were five officers of various regiments (three of them wounded, 180 men of all regiments and about 800 French. I shall not forget that march. All three days we were continually passing German troops. The cavalry prodded us with their lances, the artillery and engineers struck at us with their whips, and the tired infantry cursed us and spat on our clothes as we passed. Our guards though, did not dare protect us."

"At Mons nine of them were packed into a little room 'the size of a London bathroom' whose only furniture consisted of a hunk straw. There they were kept for three days. 'Periodically Hun officers came to the door and cursed us.' For food they depended on some bread, sardines and water, brought to them surreptitiously by some Belgians and once a German Uhlan of the Guard, who has stayed at Balmoral, smuggled wine, bread and some sardines under his tunic to us."

"Before leaving Mons they were joined by a captured field ambulance. 'In order to impress the Belgians this ambulance was sent round and round Mons by different routes each time in spite of the suffering thus caused to the wounded over the cobbles, to show the Belgian how many prisoners the Huns had taken.'"

"During the march from Mons to Hal the prisoners received their first 'official' meal. '... We halted once and the Huns killed a cow and we were allowed some raw flesh and ditch water.'"

"At Hal they were entrained and worse.

But it is unnecessary to retell the story of the sufferings of the prisoners during their railway journey through Germany; it has already been set forth for all the world to see in the Report on the Transport of British Prisoners of War to Germany. This letter confirms in every detail the statements contained in that report. At Cologne, for example, the writer himself witnessed the degradation of the Red Cross by the German 'ladies' which has invoked the horror of the civilized world. He describes how in response to his request for some water for his famished men these dear 'hoch geboren' ladies of a cultured race as he calls them, brought some tumblers of water and poured them on the ground exclaiming: 'Thus do we give water to you English pig-dogs,' and retired shrieking with laughter to their Red Cross counter."

It is due to these men who suffered such horrors and indignities on their country's behalf that the tale of them should never be forgotten and it is due to the cause of humanity itself that they should be avenged.

This giant machine is the first of a series that had been especially constructed for bombing operations but it was not completed until three days after the signing of the armistice. It is easily the biggest airplane in the world; it weighs six tons, while the total weight when fully loaded is 15 tons.

CANADA'S WAR EXPORTS

In the twelve months ending September 1918, Canada exported $163-28,976 worth of animal products and $140,742,420 worth of agricultural products, a total of $264,230,792. In addition to her farm products she exported over $33,000,000 worth of fish.
In the first 47 months of the war Canada exported $1,872,701,000 worth of foodstuffs. This effort has helped to maintain the allies and it has helped Canada maintain her war efforts. The call to Canada is still for production and by increased production Canada can easily pay her billion dollar war debt and maintain Canadian prosperity.

The closing of the war has brought up the question of whether the high prices for grain and live stock will continue. All shippers are of the opinion that the market will hold steadily for some time. The following letter, sent out by Walters and Dunbar, of Chicago, summarizes the situation and dispels any doubts as to what the market will do:
"In our opinion the closing of the war should result in a largely increased demand for American food stuffs. Reliable information indicates a condition bordering on famine in Germany and Austria and about forty million people in Russia threatened with starvation the coming winter. The food administration estimates sixty per cent of the necessary supplies for the allied countries and the defeated nations will have to come from United States and Canada. Fair supplies of hrt are now available but the call for pork products is expected to be enormous and probably far greater than the available supply the coming winter. The administration estimates about thirty billion pounds of pork products will be required and even verges the people in the United States to economize in the use of lard, butter and edible fats.
The probable opening of free and unrestricted ocean commerce will doubtless release large quantities of grain and supplies from the southern hemisphere. Australia's wheat and wool crops which are practically intact but we believe that stockmen of the United States and Canada will be called upon to furnish meat for home and export use beyond their capacity of production for at least two or three years. Good times are ahead for the stock men and a little common sense in the distribution of receipts at market centres will result in continued high prices.

The wise action on the part of the food administration in restricting shipments of stock this week has resulted in satisfactory market conditions. Cattle prices advanced 15 to 25c on practically all grades and everything in good demand. Best grades quotable at recent high record prices. One day's receipts 18,000 with market active and steady last week.
Sheep and lambs have been arriving in Chicago at record breaking numbers. Best lambs selling around $15.25, good to choice feeders lambs $14 to $14.75, common to fair feeding lambs $12 to $13.50, fat yearlings $11 to $12; feeding yearlings $9.50 to $10; fat wethers $10 to $11, feeding wethers $8.50 to $10.00. Fat ewes $8.50 to $9.50, medium ewes $6.50 to $8.00, culls $4 to $6. We think the market is now on the bottom.
Wood, Weiler and McCarthy Limited, Winnipeg, report for Monday.
The market closed steady to a little higher on all classes of butcher steers and top feeders with all other classes meeting low mean prices. There is very little demand for light stocker steers and practically no demand on stocker heifers. Medium butcher cows and heifers are losing shippers plenty of money but the real top fancy kinds are meeting ready sales. Calves are fully $1.00 to $1.50 lower. Sheep and lambs around $1.00 lower. Hogs holding steady.
The local situation is controlled by the export demand and buyers from the east. What is wanted now is livestock in A1 condition and having the weight. Export market for hogs calls for weights from 150 to 250 lbs. and nothing less than 115 pounds will be accepted. The demand for selects is good and the market promises to be steady all fall.
Cattle show the same condition.
Export trade is good on heavy butcher steers of 1200 pounds and promises to be steady. The little demand for lighter stock.
Sheep have taken a little drop and market is dull at present. Hog raisers are asked to bear in mind that in order to get the grade and market, they must have their animals up to weight.
There is a good opportunity for farmers in western Canada now in securing a steady market for their pork, but quality must be aimed at and secured or there will be no sale

THE MARKET REVIEW

LIVE STOCK CONFERENCE

To formulate national plans for meeting the new and critical conditions in the live stock industry accompanying restoration of peace, some of the leading Canadian live stockmen and representative meat packers are being called to a conference by Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of agriculture. Those who have been watching the situation realize that Canada has the opportunity of placing her live stock industry on a broader and a sounder basis than ever before. The war has stimulated live stock production in Canada. An even greater stimulus is expected to develop with the restoration of normal commercial confederation, as the breeding stock of Europe has seriously declined during the war, in nearly all countries. A heavy demand is bound to be made upon this continent for meats and breeding stock for some years to come.
The minister of agriculture is calling upon farmers and live stock men to maintain their operations on the war time scale.

Notice to Farmers

As there is no sale for hogs weighing less than 115 lbs live, we advise all farmers having hogs to dispose of to hold them until they are of shipping weight.

WAINWRIGHT, ALTA. CANADA

ARMY IN CANADA TO BE REDUCED IMMEDIATELY

OTTAWA, Nov. 12.—The following order was dispatched on Saturday to officers commanding all military districts:

General demobilization.—As a result, the staff at militia headquarters has received from overseas the forces in Canada will be reduced at once in accordance with instructions which will be issued from time to time.

Since the declaration of the armistice necessary information to enable has been working at top pressure, in order to be ready for quick action in connection with demobilization, and the cables have been busy transmitting necessary information to enable important decisions to be arrived at. All arrangements in connection with actual demobilization of troops rest with the department of militia and defence. After that has been accomplished, all problems dealing with the re-establishment of soldiers in civil life and reconstruction generally will be dealt with by other department of the government.

In order to bring about necessary co-operation, a special meeting of the chairmanship of Hon. J. A. Calder.

Reduction to be drastic.—The first step will be a drastic reduction of all military establishments in Canada, bringing these down to absolute requirements for the operation of demobilization, the care of soldiers in hospitals and aid of the civil power. For demobilization itself, a considerable force will be required at military districts and at district depots which have been organized for the express purpose of carrying out demobilization. In addition, there will be the personnel required in connection with the medical services and dental services.

Subject to the above and to the maintenance of a moderate force in aid of the civil authorities, demobilization of troops in Canada will be carried out as rapidly possible by reference to the following classes:

Returned soldiers who can be spared and are desirous of discharge.

Married men who can be spared and who are desirous of discharge.

Men in lower categories who have been held for various duties in Canada and who can now be spared.

Men who can be spared, whose occupations are such as to make them urgently required in civil life for economic reasons.

Orders have already been issued that all men serving in Canada, and who to desire, and who were railway employees upon enlistment or when called for service, are to be discharged immediately.

INFLUENZA KILLS A NUMBER OF ALBERTA HORSES

According to reliable information received by the Edmonton Journal, from country districts the influenza epidemic has now attacked the lower animals and many horses have already succumbed to its deadly grip.

J. A. Ross, deputy clerk of the supreme court was out at Bon Accord and found in that district many of the farmers had lost valuable horses to a malady easily identified with Spanish influenza. The veterinary surgeon operating in that section was quite satisfied that such was the nature of the trouble and was treating the diseased animals with a serum.

One farmer, said Mr. Ross, discovered the disease in one of his horses and hoping to prevent any spreading shot the animal. Unfortunately seven others contracted the malady and they are now all dead. Other farmers in the vicinity have lost numbers up to five and six.

It appears that the symptoms developed by the horses are very similar to those shown by human beings. First the animal becomes fevered, then staggers and finally if he recovers from the first illness is dangerously liable to a fatal relapse if chilled.

Everything is being done Mr. Ross said, to keep the equine epidemic from spreading throughout the neighborhood.

MR. JENNEY IS APPOINTED GEN. AGENT OF G.T.P.

A circular has just been issued by Mr. W. E. Duperow, General Passenger Agent of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and Grand Trunk Pacific Coast Steamship Co. Ltd., announcing the appointment of Mr. C. E. Jenney, Vancouver, B. C., to the position of General Agent Passenger Department of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and Grand Trunk Pacific Steamship Co., with jurisdiction over British Columbia, south of Vancouver Inlet including Vancouver Island, entire States of Idaho, Oregon and Washington, State of Utah as far south as Ogden and Salt Lake City, and that portion of the State of Montana west of and including Shelby Junction to Helena and Butte.

Mr. Jenney is widely known in railway circles and has been continuously associated with the Grand Trunk System since 1904, when he joined the Company as a clerk in the general baggage department at Toronto. The following year he became directly associated with the passenger department, occupying consecutively the following positions: Soliciting Passenger Agent, Toronto; Travelling Passenger Agent, Toronto and Pittsburg; City Passenger and Ticket Agent, Grand Trunk Railway System at Toronto, from which position he was called to Vancouver to occupy the position of General Agent Passenger Department in 1914.

Mr. Jenney, with his largely extended field of activity, will continue to make his headquarters at Vancouver. His new appointment went into effect on Saturday, November 16.

WANTED—PRAYERS

The husband of one of the local church goers had set out on a sea voyage and the wife wrote and requested the parson to conduct a prayer for his safety.

Imagine her confusion, however, when on Sunday the parson read solemnly:

"Mr. Seavey has gone to see his wife, deliver the prayers of the congregation on his behalf."

WORSE THAN WAR

Buffalo Courier: Up to date the number of deaths from the influenza epidemic in the United States has been about three times the number of deaths in the American army in France.

Aubert F. Brown, optometrist will be at Cor's Jewelry store on November 26th.

Mrs. Priestley, mother of the Rev.
Priestley, of Edmonton has arrived in Wainwright to make her home here for the winter.
Mabel Prosser has been quite ill for the past two weeks, late reports are to the effect that she is steadily improving.

Mr. A. Woodward and Mr. C.
Church had a narrow escape from drowning this week. They were driving on the edge of Baxter Lake when the ice broke through precipitating the car and occupants into infect of water. After some difficulty the car was brought to shore and outside of a weeding, the men suffered no injuries. The water had been ten feet deep.

Rev. Priestley delivered from G.
W.V.A. building—soup bone, chicken, bread, buns, milk, donors names not given.

This appeal of the Red Cross for the benefit of the hospital patients and the conveniences of the Board of Health has been most generously responded to and Miss Horn again responds to the public for their hearty response.

For the benefit of those who are not already informed I would announce that the Red Cross Hospital Kitchen is at Mrs. Lasell's home, corner of King St. and 10th Ave. east, on the hospital, and that those who find it inconvenient to take donations there may leave the same at the Red Cross Room in Mr. Cor's store and rest assured that they will be safely delivered.

I am pleased to tell you Mr. Editor that I in company with Mrs. C. R.
Greer arrived in Wainwright on Sunday, Nov. 17th and we are both feeling fine, only a bit tired. I feel very much taken up with everyone here and they all seem so pleased with me that I feel inclined to stay. I will for the time engage all my energies in dairying as I am only a little boy. I might say Dr. Middle-mass escorted us and helped to look after our needs and am under the care of Mrs. Thos. Chesterman.

BREAD FLOUR EXHAUSTED

Stockholm.—Reports from Helsingfors are to the effect that bread flour has become exhausted. There is none for distribution this week and the situation is said to be desperate.

Mr. Fred Aykroyd called around to the office to tell us that the report that he was dead and buried, a victim of the flu is entirely unfounded and not based on facts.

J. W. Stuart has been confined to the house the last few days, but is now on the road to recovery.

D. O. Brown, who has been ill at his home for some time is again out and will be on the old stand at Fraser & Thursday.

Farmers should not forget that the date for applying for seed grain closes on November 26th. Make your application before it is too late.

Col. Rodman of Chauvin and Sergt.
T. Sant of Chauvin were in town Sunday to be in attendance at the military funeral of the late R. H.
Fairhead.

The first fall of snow arrived in Wednesday.

Dr. Middlemass is confined to his home through illness. A nurse from Edmonton has been sent down to look after him.

Extensive repairs are being done to the G.P.R. roundhouse this fall getting ready for the winter season.

Goose hunting should be good these days, as any one with a gun handy is almost tempted to take a shot at the fine specimens flying about town.

Mr. Walter Adams of Fabyan met with a nasty accident Tuesday in front of his store. While cranking a car, it back-fired and broke the hinge between his elbow and wrist. He was brought into town by Mr. Aram strong, of Fabyan, where his arm was dressed.

The annual meeting of the rats-payers of the town of Wainwright, which according to the Act should be held next Monday, has been called off on account of the ban placed upon all public gatherings by the provincial board of health.

in all lengths and widths. If you need any Temporary Sheds this is just the lumber for them as well, as on account of its extra strength it can be taken down and used over again many times without breakage.
For use in Square Wells it is just as good as Wall Copying. It is all
No. 1 material and we will sell it to you at less than the present un-sale price.

Gypsofibre Board

If you intend fixing up the inside of your house this winter, let us tell you about Gypsofibre Board and show it to you. It is put on just the same as Beaver Board but is far superior to that material, as it cannot expand or contract with the heat or cold but makes a solid plaster wall the same as lath and plaster. There is no waste; it does not need any lath, and you can put it on yourself at any time. It is cheaper than lath and plaster, very much cheaper than Beaver Board and quite as artistic.
